General News.

Mrs. Cora Clark Gill of Milburn Oklahoma, formerly of Marion died last week of pelagra. She was brought here for burial. She left a husband and 4 small children.

The Aluminum Ore Co., of St.
Louis, Mo., $100,000,000 corporation may build a concentrating mill here.

The Marion Ice & Cold Storage
Company of this place have started ice routes, delivering ice to nearby towns and residents on these routes.

Mrs. Mattie F. Wilcox, died of tuberculosis at Paducah. She was 71 yrs. old and was the wife of W. E. Wilcox of this city.

Judge J. F. Gordon made a speech in Madisonville Friday week telling the people the necessity and advantage of macadamized road.

The Governor of Missouri has announced that he will set apart two days in Aug. for road working in rural district. He thinks 300,000 men will aid.

In Zurich, Switzerland where the world's S. S. convention was in session $300,000 was raised for the advancement of this good work.

A special Grand Jury at Smith-land brought four indictment for the murder of Frank Longnecker last December.

S. S. CONVENTIONS GRAND SUCCESS.

Great Interest Taken in Both Siloam and Mt. Zion Gathering of S. S. Workers.

Sunday School convention at Mt. Zion was held as per announcements in the paper. A large crowd attended. The speaking and singing as well as the social feature was good and an abundant and hospitable spread on every hand at dinner time. President Dean should feel much encouraged at the success of the Siloam and also Mt. Zion meets.

More interest should be taken by the city Sunday schools, and a general feeling of good fellowship between the city and country school should be encouraged.

It seems to us that 4 county conventions instead of two and in four different months would be better than only two both in the same month. Such good things should be scattered along so every person can take them all in.

$300,000 Raised At Zurich Convention.

Zurich, Switzerland, July 21—
The World Sunday-school convention, which has been in session here for the past week closed Tuesday. More than $300,- 000 have been secured during the convention. Delegates from all parts of the world, of whom many were Americans, attended.
The sovereigns of the European countries sent their felicitations.
The next convention will be held at Tokio, Japan.

Trice Bennett For County Attorney.

Of our countyman and candidate for the democratic nomination as County Attorney, the Love county News of Marietta, Oklahoma, has this to say:
"We learn that Trice C. Bennett a former resident of Marietta is a candidate for county attorney of Crittenden county, Ky., and the News with his hundreds of friends in Love county hope he will win out, as he is the right man for this place.

While here Trice was considered one of the brightest young lawyers in the state and enjoyed a large practice. He was employed in some of the most noted civil and criminal cases ever tried in the county and always won out. He was a democrat of the truest southern type and was always among the first in the democratic ranks. When he had built up a very lucrative practice here his wife was taken sick and he moved back to Marion, Ky., his old home where Mrs. Bennett later died. He is a brother-in-law of R. H. Haynes of this city.

If elected Trice Bennett will make Crittenden county a faithful officer, and the editor of the News together with hundreds of Love county people command him to the citizens of that county."

Good News For the Old Rebs.

sions are being drawn in the

and the Confederate flag.

MAY BUILD CON- CENTRATING MILL.

Would Be A Great Advantage to Marion if Intentions are Carried Out

From reliable sources we are informed that the Aluminum Ore Co., will in the near future build an immense concentrating plant to reduce their ores before shipping same to their various plants. General Manager, A. H.
Reed, is now looking for sites and will be glad to receive bids on lots in Marion and near by adjacent to the railroad. The mill if built will be of great value to Marion and will employ many hands and have a pay roll of gigantic proportions for Marion and be of material help to all our merchants and local enterprises.

A Hoosier House Party.

Misses Nannie Rochester,
Susie Boston, Katie Yandell,
Maude Flanary and Madeline Jenkins left Friday for Dale, Indiana to attend a house party given by R. A. Rogers and family at Sunny Brooke farm.

They stopped off one night enroute, at Corydon and were given a swell reception by Miss Alma Schnable.

How About It, Judge?

That was a fine speech of Judge J. F. Gordon at the Commercial Club meeting Friday night. The suggested lines of activity for the club were good.
The improvement of the roads of the county is a great work, and some systematic and permanent road work should be undertaken. Suppose, for instance, a turnpike should be built from Madisonville to the foot of that magnificent new bridge across the Pond River. What a developer for this section of the county, and what a puller for trade from McLean county for our county's business interests.

Judge Gordon, through your Good Roads Committee of the Commercial Club, can you not inaugurate a movement that will result in a few miles of macadam road each year till the country will at least be bi-sected by a permanent road? The twelve miles to the Davis Ferry bridge can be built for not over $50,000, and it will be worth five times that amount. Your committee has a great work ahead of it—will it measure up to the responsibility? The Hustler believes it will.—Madisonville Hustler.

Drainage From Mine Makes Ohio Rise.

Henderson, Ky., July 21—Approximately 100,000,000 gallons of water, released yesterday from a flooded coal mine of the Pittsburg Coal Company at Spottsville, Ky., caused a rise of six-tenths of a foot in the Ohio River here this morning. The mine was flooded by heavy rains this spring. The water was released through a tunnel constructed from Green River to the bottom of the mine shaft.

FOUR INDICTMENTS IN SMITHLAND CASE

Wells and Two Meisbergers and Pearl Hughes are Held by Grand Jury.

Smithland, Ky., July 21.—
Four indictments for the murder of Frank Longnecker, the fur buyer of Cincinnati, last December were returned today at noon in the Livingston circuit court by the special grand jury. James Wells is charged with the willful murder of Longnecker, while Pearl Hughes, alias Wells,
Frank Meisberger and Bessie Rutman are charged with being accessories after the fact. Wells is not permitted to give bond while the other three defendants bonds were fixed at $200.

Meisberger and the Rutman woman executed the bonds and left this afternoon for Paducah en route to their homes in Louisville. They will return to their trials in September. The purpose of the indictments is to hold them as witnesses for the trial of Wells.

The grand jury is investigating the killing of Barney Trimble by Claude McCandless. Public opinion on the question is divided as to whether an indictment will be returned or not.

Truly A Statesman.

A sure-enough statesman has been found in Missouri. What you are from the state and want to be sighted? Well here is the facts:

Gov. Major has announced that he is planning a proclamation setting apart two days in August for working on the roads by every able-bodied man in the rural district of Missouri.

The Governor believes that 300,000 men will aid in the work; and this, he points out, will mean that equivalent of six hundred thousand days' work. An impressive thought!

Finally—and most extraordinary of all the governors says that he will wield a pick and shovel on some highway near Jefferson City, for the two days mentioned in his proclamation, and that he expects other State officials to do the same thing.

There's the spirit for you! It would be easy for the Governor to "beg off" on the ground that he is not accustomed to working in the sun, and that such activity as he proposes for others might bring him to a sick bed.

But such a plea would be equally sound in the cases of a couple of hundred thousand other men, perhaps.

Here's to Gov. Major, of Missouri, for he is a major in fact and not alone in name.
May more of his like of statesmen come to the front.—Paducah News-Democrat.

HELD TO GRAND JURY UNDER $5,000 BOND

Seventy Witnesses Summoned in Murder Trial Held at Madisonville Monday.

Charles Rodgers, Jr., who shot and killed Minus Ligon at Kirkwood Spring a few days ago, was held over to the grand jury at his examining trial before County Judge, R. B. Bradley, yesterday. His bond was placed at $5,000, which he has been unable to give.—Madisonville Hustler.

MRS. OSCAR E. GILL DIES OF PELAGRA.

After Long Illness Succumbs to That Dreadful Disease. Was Greatly Loved by All.

There was a thrill sorrow sent through the city last Tuesday when telegrams were received announcing the tragic death of Mrs. Cora Gill at her home in Milburn Oklahoma, of pelagra.

The suddenness of news was especially painful to her friends, many of whom did not even know of her illness. The remains were accompanied by her husband O. E. Gill of Glasgow, Ky., also E. D. Gill his brother, (who went to Milburn as soon as he heard of the approach of death), and Mrs. John Brantley of Wappanucka, Oklahoma
her sister, and they did not arrive here until Saturday morning having been delayed by poor connections enroute. A great number of friends were at the station to witness this sad home coming and followed the beloved remains to the last resting place in the new cemetery. There were many and beautiful floral offerings mutely attesting the esteem and love of those who knew her and thus remembered her in sending the flowers. The funeral was preached by Rev.
W. T. Oakley.

Cora Lee Clark was born Aug., 16th 1878 near Iron Hill in this county, died July 14th 1913, in her 35th year. She was the daughter of the late Dr. J. Riley Clark and Nancy M. Clark his wife who survives and now with the motherless babes.

Mrs. Gill is also survived by her husband Oscar E. Gill a merchant of Milburn, Oklahoma and by four children the youngest a babe 6 months, one sister Mrs. John Brantley, and three brothers, J. N. Clark, Leslie, Ark., W. H. Clark, Hoxie, Kan.,
and Dr. J. J. Clark of Milburn, Oklahoma. Her niece Nina Franklin has made her home with her and has been in her charge since the death of her mother when she was an infant of less than a year old.

The death of Mrs. Gill is very pathetic, her youth, being only 34, her 4 little ones, and her aged mother, now near the 80th mile stone who had lived with her, all combined to make it so. Her husband had just about completed her a beautiful new home, and she was never happier than when extending hospitality to some less fortunate friend. Those who know her best speak highest terms of her Christian character and of her charitable deeds.

Ice Now Being Delivered to Out Of City Residents.

The Marion Ice & Cold Storage
Company is developing a fine ice business on Rural Routes, besides shipping considerable ice on the railroad. Mexico and vicinity through S. H. Matthews

Franklin has two wagons on the Tolu route making two trips each week and taking weekly about six tons. One wagon takes a ton to Crayne twice a week, a ton to Chapel Hill twice a week, and a ton to Sheridan twice a week thus accommodating parties along these routes.

War Story Of 50 Years Ago.

BY H. L. RILEY.

As the little sketch of "Fifty Years Ago," appeared in your paper of July 10th, I will tell some of the happenings of the day before or Saturday, July 4th. Our little force at Lebanon was thrown into excitement when news reached us that the Raider, John Morgan's forces were fighting the 25th Michigan regiment at Green River bridge out on the Columbia pike not far from Lebanon. Our commander sent out a scouting party mounted on horses that were not drilled. They came into camp a little before night and were going back on the scout that night, and I being just a kid and very brave, like a great many others when not in danger, begged one of the boys to let me go in his place on the night scout, so he readily agreed, so we started after dark out the Columbia pike. We were all mounted, I was on a fine bay horse. I was unacquainted with his occupation.

It was a beautiful moon-light night, we got out three or four miles from camp, going up a long slant in a lane, our advance ran onto the enemy's pickets. They came down slant in a hurry to meet us. Our commander ordered us to dismount, which order was quickly obeyed and hitched our horses to an old time rail fence we then advanced until in sight of the enemy's pickets when we were ordered to fire on them which we did and then fell back a short distance and all of us got over inside of the field and all of us lay down in the fence corners expecting the enemy to come down the road on us, but to our surprise some one discovered a large body of them a good long distance from us across the field, hurrying to get in rear so they would be enabled to gobble us up, but we were ordered to skedaddle. Every man ran to his horse and was mounted without any trouble, except myself. My horse got scared and pulled the fence down with three or four rails tangled up in his bridle reins, running backward with his head up in the air holding the rails off of the ground till I could not get the rails out of the reins, and every other man on his horse putting the spurs to him. I was getting scared, so taking my knife and cutting both bridle reins close up to the bits and thought I could get on him. If I had accomplished my aim, I would not have cared a snap for a bridle but the scamp as soon as he found he was loose he started off in a fast gait after the crowd, I got hold of the saddle horn trying to get my foot in the stirrup so that I would have been enabled to land safely in the saddle, then I would not have cared how fast he ran just so we were getting away from John. But the old scrapper was low down, mean. He would not let me get my foot in the stirrup so I had to abandon the horse and take to my scrapers. Being alone and a big crowd of John's close on my heels. You be I was a scared Yank for a few moments, as no one seemed to take any interest in my welfare, just then, but good old Barr Young, who is now living in Madisonville, Ky., saw the condition I was in, hollered for me to run and get ahead of him and climb on the fence corner and leap on his beast behind him as he rode by. I ran until I was almost given out and got a little ahead, climbed on the fence corner and as he rode by without making any halt I made a leap and landed safely astride behind my good best friend. He told me to drop my gun but I clung to it and he said when I made the leap I gave him a hard rap on the side of his head and face with my gun, and came near knocking him off of his horse, but after coming some distance, we halted and my reckless horse was in the crowd and I got on him, and ran another race and in chasing up, my horse got in the lead for I no checkers and Mayor Wilcox drew his pistol and was going to shoot me thinking I was running through cowardice, but good Barr said to him don't shoot that boy for he has no bridle and no way to control his horse. We skirmished with them until nearly day. When we got inside of town and rode into town and turned our horses over to the owners, I eat breakfast before light at a restaurant in town then went to camp and laid down on my bunk and was fast asleep in a piece of a minute.

The Rebel pickets attacked our little force before sun up and I think every man was in line of battle but myself. They had failed to wake me but good Dad Conger came to wake me which was a little hard to do, so old Dad, as us boys called him, grabbed up a bucket of water and threw the whole contents on me. Of course it woke me instantly and I saw Dad running for the battle line, and I came off of my bunk and started after Dad, using the largest cuss words I had ever learned and I had learned nearly all real ugly cuss words. I really believe now that I then, at that time, thought it was real smart to make use of the ugliest language that could be thought of. But I think different now, and I am glad I do.

RESULTS TELL

There Can Be No Doubt About the Results in Marion.

Results tell the tale.

All doubt is removed.

The testimony of a Marion citizen can be easily investigated.

What better proof can be had?

G. W. L. Nesbitt, Marion, Ky., says: "Kidney disease had made me an invalid. I was often in bed for two weeks at a time. No tongue can describe my suffering. I often wished that death would come and end my misery. The kidney secretions became highly colored and my limbs were badly swollen. My sight failed and doctors had little hope for my recovery. I could hardly hold my hands above my head, in fact, my right side was paralyzed. I had lost all hope when relative advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I finally consented to give this remedy a trial, and a box was procured at Haynes & Taylor's Drug Store, I improved from the first and after I had finished one box, I was so greatly relieved that I felt confident I had at last found something that would cure me. One by one the symptoms of the trouble left and in three months I was a well man, attending to my business in the usual way. That Doan's Kidney Pills are the greatest remedy in the world for kidney disease, is a fact of which I am firmly convinced."

NO TROUBLE SINCE.

On Feb. 3rd, 1912, Mr. Nesbitt said: "I still believe Doan's Kidney Pills are a good remedy, I have not used any in over a year. You are at liberty to publish my former endorsement." SUGGESTIONS BY STATE EDITORS

How Kentucky Schools May Be Improved.

TO EXTEND TERM IN OFFICE.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Should Have More Time to Carry Out Reforms—Aim Should Be Education Rather than Instruction—Importance of Electing Good Officials.

Why Not?
(From the Louisville Times.)

The awakened and more intelligent interest in all that pertains to education in the commonwealth suggests an inquiry in some quarters. Why not, they ask, so contrive as that a continuity of reform be made the more certain by permitting a second term to the superintendent of public instruction? Allowing for the time necessary for him to shake down in his office and become at home with the routine, how, in the brief space left, may he hope to shape and perfect plans that shall have time to blossom and bear fruit? Is it not essential that if those plans meet public approval and support they be given every widest opportunity to prove their worth by results?

The suggestion is worth consideration. There is much to be said for it and something, no doubt, on the other side. But, at first glance, we are free to state that it "listens" well.

Our Slogan—"Education is an investment, ignorance is a tax."

(From the Russell Democrat.)

Herein lies the importance of education. We should educate rather than instruct, because it is far more important to cultivate the mind than to store the memory, and instruction is only a part of education. Studies are a means and not an end.

Children are by nature eager for information. They are always putting questions, and this ought to be encouraged. Their instincts may be trusted to a great extent, and in that case they will do much to educate themselves.

(From the Shelby Record.)

If our children are to improve at school there are two things their parents should bear in mind. There should be a progressive, energetic county school superintendent, and the school trustees must take interest in their work and do their very best to get the best results possible in their respective districts. There are not two more important officers in the county than that of superintendent and trustee. Bear this in mind when you are called on to elect them and vote for those who are qualified to fill these places.

(From the Berry Citizen.)

Physiology, hygiene and other features pertaining to sanitation should have a proper place upon the curriculum of the school at this place and taught regularly each week. In order that these subjects may be properly handled the four physicians of Berry should be placed in charge. Each one of them would be willing to give an hour of his time each week to the school as an instructor upon sanitary and hygiene science. The mere teaching of physiology, while it may interest somewhat and tickle the fancy of many of the children, does not protect one against tuberculosis, typhoid fever and other infectious diseases. These subjects would not be too difficult to teach, and either if our physicians could make them understandable, interesting and valuable.

BANKERS OFFER PRIZES FOR CORN GROWING CLUBS.

Georgetown Men Will Dispense With Calendar Advertising to Carry Cut Plan.

Calendar advertising will be dispensed with by the bankers of Georgetown this year, says the Louisville Herald, and the money usually spent along that line will be given by the bankers in prizes to the Boys' Corn Growing club of Scott county. Commissioner of Agriculture Newman recently received a communication from the bankers of Georgetown stating that such action had been decided upon at a meeting of the bankers. As a result of this action about $200 from that source will be given in prizes.

This seems to be a sane and sensible thing to do. Calendar advertising brings inadequate returns for the money invested. The banks of this state are spending $30,000 or $40,000 annually for calendars, and except in rare cases this is a dead expense. It was all right years ago when banks first began to use this medium of advertising, but now practically every business house in every town, passes out catenators to its customers. The merchant, the miller, the butcher, the blacksmith and others make a bid for trade in this way. As a result the bank's customers have more enterlances than they know what to do with and for that reason most of them are properly appreciated. We venture the assertion that the head of the Georgetown bankers will be followed by the bankers all over the state.

GOVERNOR CRUCE REACHES FIFTY

Celebrates Day on Golf Links—
Members of State Government
Present Loving Cup.

Oklahoma City, Okla.—Gov. Cruse was a half century old one day last week, and in proper recognition of the occasion knocked off work several hours before noon and went to the golf links.

"Just tell every body that I won't be here to day," he sang out to his office force. "It is not often that a man is fifty years old, and I mean to let myself enjoy it."

The Governor departed in blissful ignorance of a surprise that members of the state administration arranged for him that night. It required considerable maneuvering to keep the news from his executive ears, but when he received a message by phone to go to the Lee-Huckins at 6 p. m. he became suspicious. One hundred members of the state administration and a few invited guests sat with the governor at dinner, after which there were a few speeches under the guidance of Judge P. D. Brewer of the supreme court commission as toastmaster, and presentation of a loving cup with the names of the donors engraved thereon.

Where Govenor Was Born.

The menu cards bore a photograph of the house in Crittenden county, Kentucky, where Gov. Cruse was born, and a photograph of Lily Dale school house, also of Crittenden county, where he received his early education and numerous other suggestions of the old state.

"Extract of burgoo as it is made in Craneyville," (a Ky. neighborhood), proved to be soup, and "Marion" button radishes gave a reminder of the Crittenden county seat. Grape juice masqueraded under the title of "administration appetizer" and the dinner was attended by toasted rolls as they are said to be served in Ardmore. A Cruse cocktail was nothing more nor less than buttermilk.

Lily Dale ice cream and coffee of the Vanderbilt variety finished the dinner, and then came the toast as follows.

"Oklahoma Fifty Years Hence,"—Charles L. Moore, assistant attorney general.

"When I am fifty"—Ben F. Harrison, Secretary of state.

"Fifty Modest Requests"—Charles L. Daugherty, state labor or commissioner.

"Kentuckians Abroad,"—Judge James H. Chambers, counsel for state school land department.

"Crittenden County Fifty Years Ago"—Caswell Bennett, state department of health.

"Lee Cruse at Fifty,"—Ben Hennessey, secretary of the state board of agriculture, who presented the loving cup in behalf of its donors.

A number of the speakers made good natured reference to the recent legislature, and the work of the house general investigating committee, all of which brought applause. When Gov. Cruse took the floor to respond to the presentation speech of Mr. Hennessey, he said in part:

Not Worried Over His Age.

"I have been planning for my fiftieth birthday for five years now, to take a day off from work. Every man owes to himself and his family to take a day off every fifty years, and I expect to do so every half a century as long as I live. My friends, if you are trembling at the thought of being fifty years old, if you are not already there, dismiss it. It is the most pleasant situation in life, even though you are not governor of the state. But better than that is to know that you have friends. I would not sacrifice one of you who sit before me tonight for all the political honor and power in the

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

Permitting Convicts to be Worked on Roads Will be Voted on in November.

An amendment to the State Constitution is to be voted on at the November election, which, if adopted, will permit the convicts of the State to be worked on the public highways. The amendment limits provisions to be able bodied men who are not sentenced for life. We think this amendment ought to be adopted and we are quite confident that it will be. More than a dozen States are working convicts on roads and many of them have been doing so for a number of years. Most satisfactory results are reported and no State that has tried convict labor on public roads has ever repealed the law. It is a good way to build good road as it is the cheapest labor possible. A mile of good metal road can be built with convict labor for half the cost of regular hired labor or contract prices. We feel very confident that twice as many miles of good metal road will be built in Kentucky under convict as is now being built. In addition it will stimulate many counties to build good roads where there are none. It will also be a good law for the convicts themselves. There will be less disease among them living in the open air and better opportunities for reformation at the end of their terms. In addition to these arguments there is still another. The present system of leasing the convicts to manufacturing concerns results in bringing in competition on the market convict made articles manufactured by organized labor. The State should not be a party to this kind of competition.

"If I have made mistakes that are fatal, I am with you, disappointed. I have tried to be faithful to the trust and will hope that during the next year and a half of my official term, all, whether friend or foe, may may look back on the four years ended, and say, 'He did the best that he could.'"

"When my four years are ended I will be as interested in Oklahoma as I am today and fifty years from tonight—mark the prediction somewhere in Oklahoma, I expect to celebrate another birthday and all you may attend the event, if you will take my prescription: 'Live right, and drink a gallon of buttermilk every day.'

Surprising Cure of Stomach Trouble.

When you have trouble with your stomach or chronic constipation, don't imagine that your case is beyond help just because your doctor fails to give you relief. Mrs. G. Stengle, Plainfield, N. J., writes, "For over a month past I have been troubled with my stomach. Everything I ate upset it terribly. One of Chamberlain's advertising booklets came to me. After reading a few of the letters from people who had been cured by Chamberlain's Tablets, I decided to try them. I have taken nearly three-fourths of a package of them and now eat almost everything that I want. For sale by all dealers." Advertisement Jl

Bees in Cities.

There is not a city in America without its bees, to say nothing of the towns. Of course in New York, Chicago or Philadelphia they would hardly be successful in the central, or congested districts, nor would they be appropriate in such localities; but they can be located anywhere within two miles of the open country or suburban districts, which offer growths of weeds, wild plants, or crops of any kind which produce flowers. In this connection, I might remark that it is very seldom that any one except a beekeeper ever realizes the immense quantity of flowering plants, usually the so-called "weeds," that may be found in the vacant lots, hillsides and ravines in the average American city. Bees will travel two, three or, perhaps, four miles in their search for nectar.—Suburban Life Magazine.

In Memory.

Wednesday morning at 8:30 o'clock, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm.
Belt, and took from them their darling baby, John Henry. Just eighteen months ago he was given them to brighten and cheer their home, but the lord thought it best to take him home.
Weep not dear parents, for the lord knows best. We know his sufferings were great, but the lord says, "Suffer little children to come unto Me."

Little John Henry was a sweet and lovable child. He was so quiet and good. How you will miss his little voice saying,
"papa" and "mama."

Just an empty cradle where little baby did rest;
Just an aching heart where baby once was pressed,

Parents weep no longer o'er the little mound,
In Heaven shining brightly, your jewel can be found.

Just a little angel in the happy land;
Just a little stranger Christ has called his lamb.

A friend, N. M.

In Memory.

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mose Forter and carried home their darling little girl, Maggie Lee Foster.

She was eleven years old.
She was a sweet child and loved by those who knew her.

It was hard to give her up, but God does all things well. I will say to the bereaved parents not to grieve after her but to strive to meet her in a better world than this, where there will be no pains nor death, but all will be peace and joy at the Savior's right hand.

A precious one from us is gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in their home
That never can be filled.

God in His wisdom as recall,
A bloom of love is given,
But though the body moulded here,
The soul is saved in Heaven.

precious tokens of love.

Splendid Whitewash.

The whitewash used by the government on light houses and other public buildings, is applied hot. Take unslacked lime, two pecks; common salt, one peck; rice flour, three pounds; Spanish whitewash, one-half pound; clean white glue, one pound; and water sufficient. Slake lime in ten gallon vessel; strain, and add the salt, previously dissolved in warm water. Boil the rice flour in water, soak the glue in water and dissolve on a water-bath and add both of these, together with the whitening and five gallons of hot water, to the mixture, stirring all well together. Then cover and let stand a few days, when it will be ready for use. Needing to be used hot, it must be applied from a kettle over a fire; all the better if the fire is portable.

Letter of Sympathy and Condolence.

Dear Friend:
If anything could have caused me especial pain it was the news of your sad bereavement.

How I remember your dear husband. Loving, lively, intelligent and affectionate, ever displaying a thoughtfulness beyond his years, and to lose a promising husband truly brings a deep shadow; but remember that light sometimes will break through, and there will be a glad and happy reunion in the great beyond.

It has indeed been a heavy blow, and I scarcely know how to talk of consolation, under so bitter affliction, but think of One who careth and who loves us. He has prepared a bright and beautiful home beyond the grave. And the spirit of the dear one will only wait a brief period. When in sweetness and love he will meet his loved ones and depart no more.

I can say no more; human consolation is weak. May God bless you in your sorrow, is the wish of a friend to Mrs. Franklin, Bleeding A Continent.

The total Panama excavation for the transisthmian canal will be 210,000,000 cubic yards. The annual erosion of the banks of the Mississippi river alone, (tributaries excluded), is estimated at more than 1,000,000,000 cubic yards.

The Mississippi in flood is eight times the volume of the mighty Niagara.

The annual losses in the Ohio Valley alone exceed $50,000,000 and the Ohio is only 967 miles long and drains but 210,000 square miles.

Gifford Pinchot estimates the flood losses since 1900 at $1,000,000,000, and statisticians agree that direct flood losses within the last half century exceed the total cost of all our wars, (including the Civil War).

Floods in the Mississippi Valley carry out to the Gulf of Mexico every year nearly 600,000 tons of the richest soil in the whole great basin, and the irony of the loss is biting when it is remembered that this vast area of alluvium is wrenches from the producer only to obstruct navigation by depositing bars or shallow channels, and that this same producer must be taxed to pay for a second removal of his lost producing area. All of these figures have been on the direct lines of dollars or square miles. Who can estimate the volume or the value of the lost hope and courage of those who see the results of years of hard endeavor swept out in a single night.—The Christian Herald.

FIRST THROUGH the PANAMA CANAL

By E. H. PICKARD

Colon, C. Z.—I am going to take you through the completed Panama canal on the first vessel to pass across the Isthmus from the Atlantic ocean to the Pacific. True, the canal is not yet completed, and will not be for a year or so, but that shall not prevent our making the trip now—on paper.

Let us imagine ourselves, then, on an ocean liner approaching the Atlantic or northern entrance of the great canal, prepared to enjoy this initial trip and to wonder at the sights in store for us. In that word "northern" lies the first surprise for many of the passengers who did not know that the canal runs not from east to west, but from northwest to southeast. This seeming anomaly is due to the fact that the Isthmus of Panama here trends almost east and west.

It is still early morning when a watchful passenger shouts "Land," and all who are up rush to the port rail to gaze upon the hilly, jungly coast of the Isthmus between Porto Bello and Colon. As the steamship plows swiftly through the waters as blue as ever were those of the Mediterranean a cheer goes up from the deck, for we have caught a glimpse of the Stars and Stripes fluttering above a fringe of cocoanut palms. That marks the location of one of the big forts built to protect the canal in time of war and is on Margarita Island, virtually a part of the mainland. Colon, flat and uninteresting, now comes into view, and directly ahead of us an immense breakwater stretches a mile out from the shore on the right. At its land end, on Tora point, is another fort whose great guns are masked by the tropical foliage.

Now we have virtually entered the canal, for the 500-foot channel extends far out from the shore line. At reduced speed we enter Colon harbor and the bay of Limon and steam past the pretentious Washington hotel, Uncle Sam, proprietor; the docks of Colon, crowded with shipping from the United States, Europe and many a port of Latin America, and the American town of Cristobal on whose water front stands the statue of Columbus sent over long years ago by the Empress Eugenie. Skipping about the bay, looking like long, black water beetles, are the cayucas or native dugouts, and moving lazily before the sea breeze are the little sailing craft in which the queer San Blas Indians are bringing their products to market.

Four miles and a half we steam through Limon bay and the shores narrow in on our 500-foot channel, still at tide level. Now look ahead three miles and get a glimpse of the Gatun locks, that tremendous flight of three water steps up which we are to be lifted. In a few minutes we reach the towering dividing wall of concrete, our own power is shut off and the electric locomotives on the lock walls take us in tow. Four of these powerful machines attach their hawsers to our ship, two in front to pull it and two astern to keep it steady and to bring it to a stop when entirely within the lock chamber. The immense gates close silently behind us and at once the water begins to flow into the chamber through culverts that have their openings in the concrete floor. Slowly the vessel rises until it is on a level with the second chamber, 28 1/2 feet above sea level, when the gate ahead is opened and the electric mules move forward, this time up a heavy grade by means of the center racks in the tracks. Twice this operation is repeated, and now we are at the summit, 85 feet above the sea. The last gate opens and the locomotives pull us into Gatun lake.

As our propellers begin to turn again and we steam out into this immense artificial lake, a marvelously beautiful landscape is spread before us. The surface of the lake is dotted with islets, once the summits of Tiger hill, Lion hill and a dozen other eminences; on both sides are steep promontories, lovely little peninsulas and deep bays and inlets where the water has spread into the once jungle-filled valleys.

Before we get too far from the locks, let us step to the starboard rail and have a look at the Gatun dam, enormous stretch of rock, sand and clay that has formed Gatun lake by impounding the waters of the Chagres river. It is in reality a low ridge, one and a half miles long, built across the valley, and when we are told that it is nearly half a mile wide at its base, 400 feet wide at the water surface and 100 feet wide at its crest, which is twenty feet above the level of the lake, how utterly ridiculous seem the fears of those alarmists who predicted the dam would be pushed over by the Chagres in time of flood!

BRAIN LEAKS.

BY F. S. LOYD.

Uncle John Rice has composed a nice little piece of poetry it goes like this: "When Eve in Eden saw the snake, She chased around to get some clothes. And in view of the latest styles, We need some snakes now, goodness knows."

Sam Watson and his wife got into a little friendly spat the other day, and his wife said to him, "you'll be sorry some day when I am in the silent tomb." He said, "well, it won't be your fault if it is silent, my dear."

Vernon Oakley's wife says the candidates are so thick in Marion that the ladies around here are afraid to throw out dishwater.

Henry Rice went to the Home-Coming at Padach and went to a restaurant for dinner. After waiting a long time for his order. "Say, waiter." "Yes, sir." "Would you mind bringing me a little something to go with my knife and fork and spoon?"

Henry Martin attended the mirthful Monday night at Fredonia. He took all of his dogs along as they were admitted free.

Byrd Guess has bought a new hat. He got one this time that fits so tight it would not jar off when his mule got to trotting.

Little Mary Loyd said, "I've got a father and a mother and grandfather. And how old is your grandfather?" "I don't know, but we've had him a long time."

Mrs. Emma Crow said to her Sunday school class. "Now children, can any of you tell me what an epistle is?" "I can," answered little Josephine. "An epistle is the wife of an apostle."

Dick Crow was working on the car, Titanic, the other day, and Dr. Bunton came up and said, "trouble, Dick?" "some," was his reply. "What power car is it?" "Forty horse," came the answer. "What seems to be the matter with it?" "Well, from the way she acts I should say that thirty-nine of the horses were dead."

Mrs. Nora Loyd's next door neighbor was quite sick, so one morning she said to Kenneth, "run over and see how Mrs. Hughes is this morning." Kenneth started but in a few minutes he came running back and said, "she said it was none of your business." "Why Kenneth what did you ask her?" "Just what you told me to. I said you wanted to know how old she was."

Miss Mattie Smith said to her sweetheart with flashing eyes "what did you mean by kissing me as I lay asleep in the hammock this morning?" "But," protested the young man, "I only took one." "You did. I counted at least, seven before I awoke."

Mrs. Alex Garner said, "Alex, how do you suppose those dozens of empty bottles ever got into our cellar?" "I don't know, dear. I never bought any empty bottles in my life."

Sam Howerton said he knew one man that could always please himself and his wife at the same time, but the mutt was only married seven days when he died.

Sherd Hale says this is a mean old world in some ways. As soon as a fellow gets enough money to get all the blackberry pie he wants, he finds he has dyspepsia and can't eat any.

Frank Clift says temptation is when a boy with a sling-shot sees a stray cat, or a married man sees a good looking girl smiling at him.

Professor Davis said to Lucy Loyd in school the other day. "Lucy, what is the meaning of the word transparent?" "Something you can see through." "Right. Give an example." "A ladder, Professor."

ABOARD SHIP.

"All ashore, that's going ashore" comes the signal for those land bound to say last goodbyes, and hurry down the gangways, and for those left on the boat to use their handkerchiefs, first on their eyes, and then to wave in the breeze.

The band strikes up: "The Girl I Left Behind Me," or the last turkey-trot. The gang planks are lifted, the hawsers drawn in, and we are off.

Out of the crowd dashes a man on a dead run, porters puffing behind with his luggage. If lucky he catches the rising gang plank with a running leap, failing that, he jumps into a tug, waiting for just such an opportunity to pick up a liberal fee, and puffs after us.

By this time the passengers have forgotten their grief in the excitement of watching to see if he will catch us.

An officer gives a signal and a rope ladder is brought and thrown over the side. A tugman gets hold of the lower end, and another catches rope that he fastens around the passengers waist, who then starts up the ladder, holding on with a death grip. Never before has he believed the tales about the size of modern steamers, now he thinks the half has never been told.

The great mass looms up before him, around him, above him, and he crawling up that ladder feels himself more insignificant than a fly. The passengers cheer and jeer, they offer all sorts of needless advice, they enquire if he nearly got left. They forgot that on land they are supposed to have a certain veneer of civilization, and dance about that victim with the glee of wild Indians around a prisoner being tortured.

At last he is pulled aboard by waiters, sailors, in the meantime his baggage, tied to ropes, has also been raised from the tug, and we are really off.

I witnessed a very amusing scene at Yokohama, when a party of about twenty dashed up on the quay in Jinrikishas just after we had cast off. One East Indian made the gang plank by a leap that I doubt was ever equalled at any amateur meet, the rest followed in a launch. It is hard for a man to climb a swaying rope ladder.

Imagine what it is for a woman to attempt such afeat. There was one small boy who, half way up, was simply paralyzed by fright, but two sailors ran nimbly down and carried him up. I want to acknowledge that the crowd tried to encourage the youngster to make the ascent, and were kind to him afterward: the only instance I can recall when they did not use their supposed right to get all the fun they could out of anything.

Life moves with a certain pleasant monotony on ship board. In the morning tea and toast is brought to your stateroom, a few moments afterward your bath steward or stewardess taps and announces your bath is ready.

Breakfast follows. At ten bouillon and salt crackers are served on deck. A luncheon of many courses comes at one. At four-thirty tea and cakes, with sandwiches for those who require something more substantial. At eight an elaborate dinner is served, when most of the passengers wear full evening dress. After ten supper is served. This would seem enough to satisfy even the healthiest appetite, but boys are always running about with trays of bottles and glasses, and the cafes do a lively business. In justice it should be said this constant feasting is indulged in principally for the sociality it engenders.

There is no other such invigorating and life giving air as that of the open sea. A veritable Lethe it is, also, obliterating from the mind the cares and frets of every day. In their places come new conceptions of what is worth while and what is not. The majesty of life, as well as its frailty, appears.

Little souls, however, that thinking appalls, seek refuge in all sorts of frivolous ways: "You can not put a quart into a pint measure," says an

To the Republican Voters of Crittenden County.

I take this method of announcing my candidacy for the nomination and re-election to the office of County School Superintendent. I hope that I am not coming to you a stranger, for I have tried for the past four to years make my influence felt in every nook and corner of the county for better schools. I know, as does ever one else that has been closely associated with me in the work, that there are many things yet to be done before the schools can accomplish what a "real school" is expected to do.

Once a young boy fell overboard only a few feet from me, and drowned in the cold waters of Lake Michigan before he could be rescued. Not even his body could be recovered, and one of the most mournful sounds I have ever heard was when the whistle blew for us to go on and leave alone in that waste of waters one who a little while before, full of boyish mischief and in a spirit of laughing bravado, had leaned over the rail crying he had seen many a worse sea.

Shortly after leaving San Francisco last fall a young Japanese student committed suicide by jumping overboard, later an elderly man died in the hospital and was buried at sea. It was a dark night, spitting rain. The rear end of the boat was draped in the ship's colors, officers and crew attended in dress uniform, and all classes of passengers stood, with uncovered heads, while a short ritual was read, then during a chant, a bell sounded, the ship's machinery stopped, and the body sewed in white canvas and covered with flowers and the flag of his country, slipped from an inclined board into the water. The bell sounded again, and we went on once more. It was very solemn, but there was nothing about it revolting or dreadful.

Nothing awakens so quickly or startles so, at sea as the stopping of the boat, since, as a rule, it only happens when there is something serious the matter.

I remember once in the North Sea on a cold rainy day that had made a lounge and a book seem more attractive than the open deck. I was suddenly conscious that something unusual was taking place. Once on deck there was nothing to see save a fishing craft in the distance, and a small boat bobbing between us. Our Captain had discovered two stowaways, and with a barrel of rum and a few boxes of biscuits was bribing the fishermen to take them back to land. To bring into an American port more people than your ship papers call for is a very serious offense, the Captain explained to me that night at dinner, punishable by heavy fine by the government, and the cause of an unfavorable mark against the Captain's rating as an officer.

The fascination of the sea is something that grows on one, grasps one, and enfolds them: a spell that can only be broken by the magic cry, "Land ahead!"

Red Letter Day For

Blackburn Church.

Last Sunday by 10:30 a. m. quite a crowd had gathered at Blackburn Baptist church. By 11 o'clock a Press scribe had arrived. Rev. W. R. Gibbs preached, after which a collection was taken for the purpose of recovering their church building. The collection was about $62.

The next meeting was in the grove where everybody partook of a wholesome dinner.

At 2:00 p. m. we met in the house and listened to a sermon by Rev. J. B. McNeely. Rev. I. W. Talley is pastor of this church and from all appearance everything is in good running order.

You will find my name first in the column for County Superintendents on the ballot to be used at the August primary election.

I will appreciate your support as much as any one could, and return the favor by being the best officer that I may, know how to be.

Yours very truly,
E. Jeffrey Travis.
